

The ADAP Watch

As of March 5, 2010, there were 662 individuals on AIDS Drug Assistance Program (ADAP) waiting lists in ten states. This is a 58 percent increase from the 418 individuals on the December 2009 ADAP Watch. Twelve ADAPs, five with current waiting lists, have instituted additional cost-containment measures since April 1, 2009. Eleven ADAPs, including four with current waiting lists, are considering implementing new or additional cost-containment measures by the end of March 2011. Among cost containment measures being considered, reductions in services provided by ADAP, including reducing ADAP formularies and instituting waiting lists, are most apparent.

The current economic crisis has impacted ADAPs primarily through decreased state general revenue support and increased program utilization. For many states, the program’s viability depends on federal funding awards (anticipated by March 31, 2010) and state general revenue support for the next state fiscal year (in most states this begins on July 1, 2010). From FY2008 to 2009, ADAPs experienced an average monthly growth of 1,271 clients. This is an unprecedented increase of 80 percent from FY2008 when ADAPs experienced an average monthly growth of 706 clients. ADAPs reported the following factors contributing to cost containment measures:

- Level federal funding awards (22 ADAPs)
- Higher demand for ADAP services as a result of increased unemployment (22 ADAPs)
- Escalating drug costs (19 ADAPs)
- Increased demand for ADAP services due to comprehensive HIV testing efforts (15 ADAPs)
- Decreases in state general funding for ADAPs (14 ADAPs)

ADAPs received an increase of $20 million through the FY2010 Congressional appropriations process; however, this falls far short of what is necessary for ADAPs to clear current waiting lists and curtail implementation of additional cost-containment measures. NASTAD and other community organizations are requesting an additional $126 million in FY2010 emergency federal funding to allow states to continue their programs without imposing restrictions on eligibility and formulary reductions. Emergency funding to curtail ADAP waiting lists has not been available since 2004 when President Bush provided additional funds to the program. Without emergency funding, ADAPs will continue to restrict access to their programs.

The following ADAPs reported cost containment strategies. Other ADAPs may need to consider changes but due to unfinished state budget processes, political factors and other considerations, have not reported them.
